Champagne

Champagne continues to dominate the special occasion drink choice. Of the 20 producers that we list in our retail division, we have selected a few quality growers who have been our favourites for many years, including the very fine grower Pierre Bertrand, whose Brut NV was the only wine awarded 'Exceptional' at a Decanter Champagne panel tasting, and the hidden jewel of the Grandes Marques, Champagne Joseph Perrier. Something for every list, as well as excellent support from the likes of Martin Gamman MW, UK ambassador for Joseph Perrier.

Sparkling Wine

The rise in Prosecco sales has not been at Champagne's expense in our business, suggesting people are choosing to drink sparkling rather than still wines. Our own Le Calle Prosecco brand has won Gold in international competition and is highly recommended. More complex than Prosecco, however, and less expensive than Champagne are Crémants, the sparkling wines of different French regions, each with their own unique regional combination of grapes. These can be the perfect choice for an alternative by-the-glass offering, and we offer a selection from Burgundy, Loire Valley, and Limoux. The Cava renaissance gathers pace and we have some brilliant and affordable examples.

Australia

Shiraz from the Barossa Valley may be Australia's most famous wine export, but as the country aims to display the diversity of grape varieties, styles and terroirs to be found in the country, some of the stunning but internationally less well-known wine regions are finally being given an opportunity to shine on the world stage. From delicate and aromatic Pinot Noirs from Mornington Peninsula on the coast of Victoria, to hearty reds from McLaren Vale in neighbouring South Australia, to the bright whites and cool Cabs from all the way across the country in Margaret River, Western Australia, there's an incredible selection of wines to be had. We've picked some of our favourites below—but don't worry, we've also included Barossa Shiraz!

France

French wines make up over 40% of our sales and we carry some 600 different wines, more than from any other country. Classic regions are well-represented, but it is in the Languedoc, Bordeaux and Loire Valley where we have our particular strengths. We have won numerous awards for our French wine selection, including Best Independent for French Wines twice, the Sud de France Merchant of the Year twice and International Wine Challenge's Specialist Merchant of the Year for Languedoc-Roussillon.

Alsace

A brilliant source for food-friendly (particularly Asian-inspired cuisine) dry white wines. We import from a number of growers but here we recommend wines from the excellent Cave de Hunawehr, recently rated France's third-best co-operative wine company.

Our list here includes wines we are fairly confident about offering all year round. We stock lots of great Burgundy from smaller growers, too, just ask your account manager for an up-to-date list.

South Africa

The South African wine industry has been hard hit this year with government imposed sanctions on all alcohol sales, including exports, during national lockdown. There was one point when producers worried they might not even be able to continue harvesting and making the 2020 vintage. The wine industry rallied around, though, and exports are up and running once more. For us, the overall South African wine style is at a perfect crossroads between the Old World and the New World. Effortless fruit, but still with a certain amount of restraint.

Fortified Wine

Port, Sherry, Madeira. Some may snub these wines as out of fashion, but we've always thought the world of them. These are arguably some of the best value wines available, and it seems we're now not the only ones to think so. Gonzalez Byass' reported sales of the iconic Fino brand Tio Pepe were up 33% year on year in the 12 weeks to 27th June 2020. Sherry seems to have been the drink of lockdown! Remember, Port will keep for a week or so once opened, dark sherry for a month, and Madeira will frankly keep for decades. Serve Fino sherry chilled, and drink it quickly!

107220	Port	Kopke 10yo White Port (Half Bottle)	37.5cl	£15.00		20.0%
Produced by the oldest of the port houses (established 1638) from white grapes grown in the Douro, this beautiful 'white tawny' undergoes the same process as traditional tawnies made from red grapes and averages fifteen years of age (though the bottle states '10yo' because 15-year-old tawnies are not a recognised as a category!). Elegant and complex, there is sweet spice alongside woody, nutty and earthy notes. Brown sugar and caramel are perfectly rounded with a clean and moreish finish. An absolute stunner of a wine.
164195	Port	Graham's Fine Tawny Port NV	75cl	£10.15		19.0%
Aged in wooden barrels, the juice is deliberately exposed to gradual oxidation and evaporation, resulting in a mellow golden-brown colour. This oxidation evokes nutty flavours to the wine, which is then blended by the winemaker to match the house style. The rich, fruity style of a young port remains, but the wine begins to gain the lingering nut and caramel flavours of an aged tawny.
